Motion Picture Chief Insists Industry Cannot Be Expected, at Tender Age of 20, to Have Poise of Press

Will H. Hays, who returned yesterday from a visit to Hollywood, declared in a statement last night that the mistakes which have been made in the takes which have been made in the motion-picture industry in the past have been the errors of youth.

"Picture-play making is a matter of less than twenty years of age," he said. "It really cannot be expected to have the splendid stability, poise and standards of, for example, the press, which has reached its present estate only after 600 years of endeavor. The motion picture already has accomplished the most wonderful things, and before long its severest critics will be warmest in its praise."

"Fine Kids," Declare Hosts of 4,754 Lads and Lassies Who Are Seeing a Glorious United States for First Time

"Fine kids, fine trip, some fine welcome!"

That's the report of the volunteer escort who traveled to Putnam, Conn. yesterday with a crowd of seventy-two lads and lassies who are to get Fresh Air vacations there as guests in as many Putnam homes. And the chairman of the fund's committee of arrangements there says they are all "lovely" homes. "Fine kids" in "lovely" home

And from Canandaigus, N. Y., the same story:

"Our quota of Fresh Air children arrived August 3 in fine shape. They are a wonderful bunch of kiddies and I wish we could have had more. Another year we will. I have seen several of them to-day and they are very happy in their new surroundings.

"We are planning to take them on a big picnic around our lake and I know they will enjoy that."

And from Patterson, N. Y., nearer home:

To-day after a long illness. She was a native of Norway and married Senator Nelson in 1868, when he was a struggling young lawyer in Alexandria. They have a daughter, who, with Senator Nelson, will depart to-morrow for Alexandria, Minn., where the funeral will be held.

Mrs. Nelson came to this country with her parents when she was a little girl. They settled in Minnesota.

of "lovely" homes. "Fine kids" in "lovely" homes—what could be nicer than that for the next fortnight?

"Some fine welcome!" exults the escort. "But," says the gloom who is always taking the joy out of life, "wait till the fortnight is up and see if those same welcomers won't be delighted to get rid of your 'fine kids."

That doesn't sound so unreasonable, either, does it, when you stop to think that the "fine kids" were all absolute strangers to their hosts, all little tenement dwellers who haven't had many i opportunities to learn how to deport themselves in polite society. But the laugh will be on the joy killer just the same. Here's the other side of the picture, or, rather, the other end of the vacation.

Some time ago just about the same in the same and plant the same and plant the same and plant the same and plant the same. Some time ago just about the same and plant those on the politure aiready has accomplished the most wonderful things, and before long its severest critics will be warmed in its praise."
